John Swanson, Cook County State's Attorney to Speak At Tinley Lions Program

The Tinley Park Lions Club meeting scheduled for next Monday night will be held on Tuesday evening instead of the date will be Feb. 23rd and not Feb. 22nd as at first announced and the place will be the Tinley Park School Auditorium. The change had to be made because State's Attorney John Swanson of Cook County, speaker of the evening could not appear Monday owing to a previous engagement.

The Lions wish it to be known that all organizations, civic and religious and the entire public are cordially invited to participate and attend.

A patriotic program will be provided which will be of interest to every civic minded person and one that will be fitting to this great occasion of our history, the 200th anniversary of the birth of the father of our country.

This is being celebrated throughout the nation by thousands of organizations and millions of citizens.

We should keep alive in our minds those who have sacrificed to make it possible for us to enjoy the privilege of living in this great country of ours.

The program is free to all and even though Mr. Swanson has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election, he wishes it distinctly understood that his speech will not be a political one.

The following organizations either have accepted or expect to accept cooperation in making this one of the biggest meetings in Tinley Park:

The American Legion, Chas. Wallin, Commander.

P. T. A., Mrs. E. Anderson, pres. Ladies Garden Club, Mrs. C. Goel, pres., Junior Garden Club, Mrs. R. Hug, director.

Ladies Chorus, Prof. Alexander Corado, director.

R. N. A. Mrs. Aug. Mesenbrink Junior R. N. A. Mrs. George Rowden, director.

Zion Lutheran church, Rev. Albert Buddenhagen, pastor.

German and English M. E. churches, Rev. Mr. Loeppert, pastor.

City Council, Wm. Mohr, president City Firemen, H. Brueggemann Fire Chief.

Tinley School Board, Bert Fulton, President.

Triangle Club, Walter Mesenbrink, president.

Bowling League, Christ Mager, president.

Niagatri Girls Club, director.

Tinley Relief Association, Paul Rauhoff, president.

Elmore Social and Relief Association, Mrs. Towle, president.

Tinley Park Band, Edwin Hirsch, director.

The Lions promise an interesting program. Everybody welcome and they invite everybody's co-operation to give a proper sized welcome to their invited guest and speaker of the evening, State's Attorney John A. Swanson.

T. C. Davis Tinley Park Man Dies In Iowa

T. C. Davis, well known former Tinley Park resident, died last Sunday afternoon at the home of his sister in Montezuma, Iowa, his old home town. He was confined to bed for two weeks with heart trouble. He left last fall with Mrs. Davis for Iowa to spend the winter there.

Surviving him are his widow, two sisters and his mother.

Mr. Davis had resided in the Tinley community for the past thirteen years. He made many warm friends here who were deeply shocked to hear of his sudden passing on.

Palos Scene of Wash. Celebration

The Palos Park Community church was the scene of a George Washington Bi-Centennial Celebration Thursday evening. A patriotic program featured by songs, speeches and poetry centered around the Washington "Elm" followed with a baked ham dinner cooked by the ladies of the community.

Mayor Mahaffay as master of ceremonies said that he was glad to welcome the citizens of both Palos and Orland Park to the united service.

Mrs. Ben E. Butties, Conservation Chairman of Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs delivered the address of the evening. Musical numbers were rendered by the Or-Los Choral Society under the direction of Mrs. Thomas of Orland Park.

Lottie O'Neill Opens Campaign In Will County

The political campaign in Will County was opened Monday when Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill who is seeking to be returned to the legislature, made the opening political speech in Will County when she spoke before a crowd of several hundred farmers at the auction sale on the Wm. L. Knippel farm east of Frankfort Monday afternoon. Standing on the running board of an automobile she made a brief speech. She received a hearty ovation.

Mrs. O'Neill will announce a list of speaking dates soon.

Mrs. O'Neill was a member of the Illinois General Assembly during the 53rd, 54th, 55th and 56th sessions.

Her record is approved by civic educational, church and labor leaders throughout the state. Her motto is: "An honest and faithful friend of the taxpayer."

Eugene Harris Joliet for Coroner

Eugene N. Harris, of the undertaking firm of Wunderlich & Harris of Joliet and widely known throughout Will County, has entered the race for the office of coroner of Will Co., on the Republican ticket subject to the primary April 12th.

Mr. Harris is preparing to launch a very intensive campaign soon and one of the big features of his campaign speeches will be the exposure of the old bug-a-boo that only a physician is qualified to hold this office. Mr. Harris points out that in cases where doctors are holding the office of coroner they cannot certify to themselves, but must employ a deputy coroner to certify to the coroner. Where men not of the medical profession are holding the office of coroner they can easily get all the medical testimony and aid they need in case of emergency cases involving crime. Mr. Harris from present indications will make a strong race.

Hundreds Attend Knippel Sale

The auction sale held Monday afternoon on the Wm. L. Knippel farm east of Frankfort drew a crowd of several hundred buyers from many miles around. Good prices were realized and horses especially selling well averaging over $100 a head. One horse selling for $150. Colts sold for $75. The cattle had been sold to the party who is going on the farm.

The Marley Church Ladies Aid served the lunch and were sold out long before the close of the sale. This was the largest sale held here this winter. Mr. Knippel is going to devote his time to milk trucking. He has built a new residence on Route 51 a short distance north of the Frankfort four corners.

Schmaedeke and Gorman were the auctioneers.

Mrs. W. B. Combs In Charge of Colonial Party

The 3rd District I. F. W. C. Garden department will sponsor a Colonial Party, Bridge and Tea in honor of the Bi-Centennial celebration of George Washington at the Chicago Beach Hotel, Friday, Feb. 26th at 1:30 p. m. A hand decorated medallion of George Washington will be the table prize and one will be given for the best costume of Martha Washington. Chief Chiabasso in costume will sing. The profit of this party are to go for the benefit of the Martha Washington Home for Crippled Children. Mrs. Wallace B. Combs of Tinley Park, the district garden chairman is in charge of the affair.

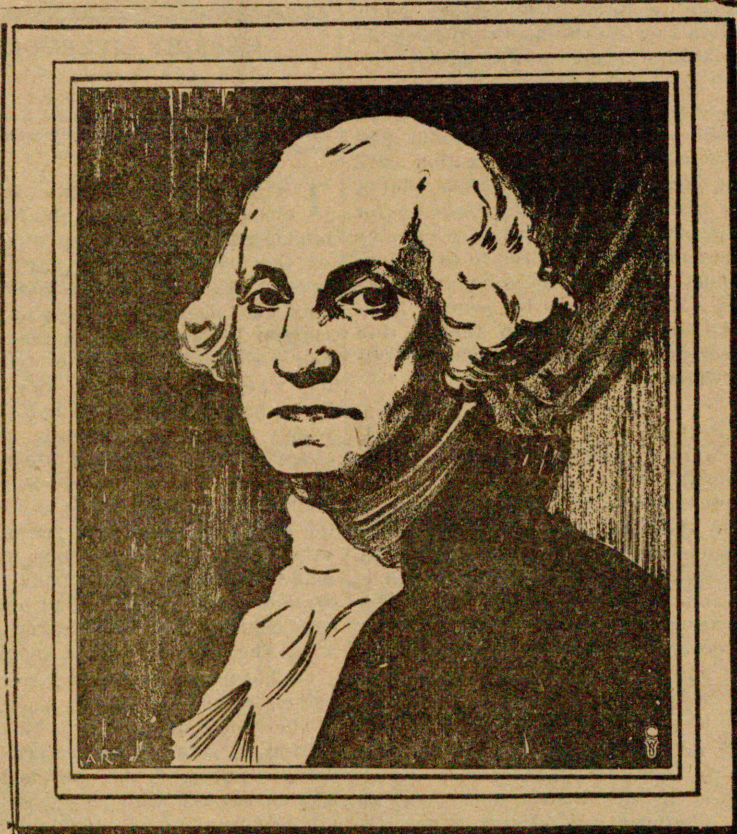

Mokena P. T. A. Urges Payment of Dues

The Mokena P. T. A. is urging all members in arrears with their dues to pay up by Feb. 23rd which is the dead line. All in arrears on that day will be dropped from the membership list. The P. T. A. is needed here and all those interested in keeping it functioning in Mokena are kindly urged to pay their dues before the deadline date. Dues can be paid to Mrs. R. E. Coler, treasurer.

To Vote On Annexing More School Property

A special election will be held in school district No. 140 in Orland Township Saturday of this week for the purpose of voting on whether or not additional land should be purchased and added to the present school site.

To Celebrate 200th Anniversary

February 22nd to Thanksgiving Day of this year has been set aside by proclamation of President Hoover as a time for celebrating the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

On the opening day, next Monday, Feb. 22nd, the President will deliver his George Washington address before Congress assembled in joint session in the chambers of the House of Representatives. This will be attended also by the Supreme Court. Cabinet members, foreign diplomats and invited celebrities. Following his address, the President will march out to the east steps of the Capitol to lead the singing of "America" by 10,000 massed voices accompanied by three bands and conducted by Walter Damrosch. The outdoor program will be broadcast at 11:45 a. m. central standard time. There will be afternoon exercises at the Washington monument and a ball in the evening.

Many other celebrations on this day are taking form in pageants, plays, costume balls, teas, etc. One of the most attractive events will be the ball given in historic Gadsby's Tavern in Alexandria, Virginia, reproducing the last birthday ball which Washington attended. The guests will be gowning in costumes of that time.

Ramsey, New Jersey, will give a pageant centered around the battle of Brandywine.

A Yankee Doodle Ball will be given in New York City in the St. Regis Hotel.

Mokena Board to Back Up Wolf Road

Rumor has it that the Mokena village board is considering pushing the Wolf road matter in order to get early action. The board passed a resolution some ago asking the county to take action to complete the paving of Wolf Road to the Lincoln Highway.

Tinley Park P. T. A.

Our committee have arranged for an afternoon social Tuesday, Feb. 23rd at 1:30 o'clock at the school. All members of the P. T. A. are asked to attend and take part in the celebration of the George Washington Bi-Centennial.

Our refreshment committee has a surprise in store.

Keep this day and date open and be sure to come.

There will be no business on that afternoon. A Washington bust will be presented this same evening at the joint patriotic meeting to the school by the P. T. A.

Worth Pastor to Conduct Orland Lenten Services

The midweek Lenten services of the Orland Park M. E. church are being well attended. Rev. Mr. Coates of Lemont was the speaker this week and special music was furnished by members of his choir.

Rev. Guy C. Jones of Worth will be the speaker next Wednesday evening, Feb. 24 at 8 p. m.

The Worth Choir will furnish the music. Many have heard Rev. Jones before and know that he has a very fine message.

The Sunday morning worship service will be at 10:45 a. m. instead of 11 a. m. as before. The time was changed in order to shorten the Sunday School period. The Sunday School will convene at 9:30 a. m. before. Rev. Paul T. Sanders will preach on the Lenten topic "The Light of the World". This follows the line of thought developed in the Lenten booklet "The Fellowship of Prayer". All members and friends are urged to attend these Lenten services.

ing out invitations to a state assembly by a squadron of nine planes.

At Deland, Fla., a Washington Tea will be held in the hotel Putnam in Columbus, Ohio the church bells and chimes will ring at 10 a. m., the hour Washington was born. This is being done in most every city and hamlet in the country. The D. A. R. at Columbus will unveil a plaque marking the refugee trail, and also this city will re-enact the Washington Inaugural Ball. Memorial Hall, and episodes in the life of Washington will be given in tableaux form.

Locally, the Mokena Garden Club will hold a Washington Tea in the auditorium of the Mokena school for the Club members, the Junior Members and their mothers. A program in keeping with the day will be given by the Junior Members. The Club members would have liked to have made this tea a community affair, but owing to the stupendous nature of such an affair, they felt it was too large an undertaking and therefore limits the tea to the above mentioned group.

At Tinley Park the Lions Club will hold a special meeting in honor of this event on Tuesday night, Feb. 23rd in the Legion Hall at which time State's Attorney John Swanson of Chicago will speak.

Also we have not heard authentic, we hope each village and town in this territory will ring the bells blow whistles, etc., at 10 o'clock next Monday morning, ushering in the great event.

Andrew Ludwig For Orland Democratic Committeeman

Andrew Ludwig, local contractor has announced himself as a candidate for Democratic Committeeman for the Orland Park district at the coming primary election.

Andrew is well and favorably known in this community where he enjoys an excellent reputation, politically as well as in business circles. He has secured the endorsement of his candidacy from the majority of the officers of the local Democratic organization who believe that Mr. Ludwig will make a competent, energetic and generally capable committeeman. Mr. Ludwig claims that for years Orland has never received its just share of political favor or patronage and promises, if he is elected committeeman, to use every effort to secure proper recognition for Orland district.

To Hold Leap Year Party at Orland, Feb. 29

Announcement has been made of a Leap Year to be held for the benefit of the Choral Society at Eleanor Waje's Keane Luncheonette on Feb. 29th at 8 p. m. Everyone is invited to this party which promises to be an evening filled with fun, and there will be prizes, eats and music.

Mokena Village Politics Stirring

The political pot is beginning to boil merrily in Mokena. Two village tickets known as Independent No. 1 and Independent No. 2 have been made up and petitions have been circulated for the following candidates: for the first mentioned ticket the candidates are: for aldermen, August Hentsch, Albert Braun, Otto Bartels; for village clerk, Paul J. Roesner. On Independent ticket No. 2 the candidates are: Robert Marks, George Koller and J. G. Oswald for aldermen.

The last day for filing petitions for village offices is March 15th and the election is April 19th.

Orland P. T. A. Sponsors Triple Birthday Celebration

When an organization is up against the proposition of holding a business session, observing its own birthday anniversary and giving due reverence to the memory of America's two greatest national heroes, all in one evening and on top of all this making the evening enjoyable and entertaining, we claim that's about the utmost in accomplishment, and yet that is what happened at the regular monthly meeting of the Orland Park P. T. A. last Thursday evening.

Promptly at 8 p. m., President Hilda Cox called the meeting to order and after the routine business of minutes and treasurer's reports etc., was disposed of, a short snappy business session was held. The chief item of interest was the setting aside of the sum of $25 to purchase a power driven jig saw for the manual training room. Impetuous to this action was probably given by the display of a most wonderfully fashioned wall clock, the work of Prof. Bechtloff, instructor in manual training. A fair representation of the membership was present and the contest for the room attendance prize was very close, the intermediate room winning out over the primary room by one vote. The business meeting was then adjourned and the evening turned over to Mrs. Louis J. Arnold, chairman of the program committee. As we said, at the beginning of this article, it's some job to have to arrange an interesting program wherein three such major events as the observance of Lincoln's and Washington's birthday anniversaries as well as that of our P. T. A., organization had to be pulled off in one evening's session, but our energetic program chairman, Lizzie Arnold, proved that she was more than equal to the occasion. The program started off with a bang just like in a first rate light opera, but when Lylas Kay finished playing an introductory measure on the piano, the curtains were pulled aside and disclosed ten members of the Junior Choir of the M. E. church who immediately broke forth with a joyful chorus of "Now We Are Ready to Begin". After the applause which met their effort subsided, they launched into a rendition of "Just Another Candle on Your Birthday Cake" in recognition of the 4th anniversary of the birthday of the Orland P. T. A. Both numbers were excellently rendered. The boys were appropriately attired as miniature George Washington's, even to the powdered wig and silver sleeve buckles and the girls were correspondingly disclosed as colonial dames.

Those in the chorus were: Sherman Knox, Jr., Harold Morlock, Marvin Schmaedeke, Gordon Doctor, Donald Uthe, Mildred Uthe, Mae Reish, Bernice Rust, Eleanor Cox, and Ruth Arnold, all of whom deserve commendation for their excellent effort. Two recitations, "A Welcome" by little Dorothy Arnold and "A Warning" by Buddy Cox were very pleasingly given and enthusiastically received.

Mr. Bechtloff, instructor of the grammar grades, then introduced his harmonica band which he recently organized and is training from pupils of the 6th grade. Several numbers popular and patriotic were rendered by this group of 15 or 16 youngsters and the apparent results from just a very few weeks of training lead us to look forward to great things from this organization. The Junior Choir again made its bow. (continued on back page)

Orland Protests Annualing Two Suburban Trains

Orland Park residents are aroused over the news that the Wabash railroad is contemplating taking off a number of important suburban trains to and from Chicago commencing the 28th of February and the following petition to the Illinois State Commerce Commission protesting the proposed reduction in suburban train service is being circulated in Orland Park and every resident of the Orland Park territory is urged to sign this petition, which reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned citizens of Orland Park, do hereby petition not to have any of the (Wabash) suburban trains now running discontinued.

"It is understood that it is planned to discontinue No. 31 leaving Orland and to have No. 12 a through train from the south pick up passengers now using this train. Further, to give only one train leaving Chicago at approximately 5:45 p. m. and then none until 9:30 p. m. We consider these changes very detrimental to the commuters to the Southwest. We have already had many families leave our community due to inadequate transportation. Having to depend on through train service in the morning and arriving home late in the evening would mean another great loss of members living in the Southwest, all on account of inadequate transportation. This would tend to destroy the hopes of ever increasing the number of commuters in the Southwest that might be a benefit to the railroad in the future.

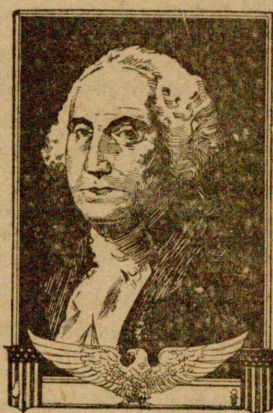

"We believe that the near future holds increasing commutation to the Southwest Towns. Population has settled more thickly in other directions from Chicago, largely we believe because of the transportation furnished them. We feel that our turn to grow is at hand, and that with proper co-operation from the railroad we will not only be able to help our present population, but in time increase it to a goodly number insuring more paid passengers in the future."

Social Hour at Orland High School

The social hour instituted this year at the Orland Park High School is an interesting application of one of the new trends in education. Modern education holds that the school should not only fit the pupils economically and vocationally, but also train them along civic, social and recreational lines. In accordance with this belief, Orland High School students are acquiring these values to a certain degree by means of the social hour. As a rule, one is held every four weeks. Thus only one period of every 160 is taken up while the proportionate values are far greater. So far there have been held several dances, a bunco party, a skating party, etc. In all of these proper rules of behavior and conduct have been set up to be followed. In the future it is planned to have an afternoon tea, a study of theatre deportment, outing behavior, all with the goal of correct and proper, as well as an enjoyable conduct in mind.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Hiram L. Williamson, Illinois Press Association

Fewer students have withdrawn from the University of Illinois during the first semester than in any year since 1926, according to G. P. Tuttle, registrar of the university. At the end of 18 weeks of this session, only 318 students had withdrawn from the university, as compared with 404 a year ago, and 455 in 1929-1930. For the first time in six years the percentage of those withdrawing has fallen below 3 per cent.

A tentative plan for a network of state airways covering Illinois, supplementing the federal airways and connecting with established routes from cities in surrounding states, has been submitted to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson in the first annual report of the state aeronautics commission. Maj. Reed G. Landis, chairman of the commission, pointed out that development of state air routes includes the establishment of satisfactory all-weather airports and the clear marking of all cities, towns and villages so that they can be identified easily from the air.

Stuart E. Pierson, director of the state department of agriculture, has announced that the state has spent not more than $1,500 in enabling Illinois farmers to store more than 5,000,000 bushels of corn on their farms and secure loans that total more than $1,000,000. Aside from the local sealers, employed by the county supervisory boards, no one connected with the plan whereby the crop has been financed receives remuneration for the services performed.

According to Col. Frank D. Whipp, superintendent of prisons in the state department of public welfare, the cell blocks under construction at the state's penal institution to house 2,160 prisoners, will be completed promptly, in spite of the delay in tax collections. All of the security type prisons that have seriously needed increased facilities are being enlarged by the addition of the rectangular type cell houses.

At the thirty-ninth annual Illinois state poultry show held in Quincy, C. O. Anderson, Jacksonville, won highest honors, took the Governor Emmerson silver trophy for the best display of waterfowl, the Schafer trophy cup for the best display of Pekin ducks, and the Illinois State Poultry association trophy for the best display of Mallard ducks. A. R. Webster, Alexander, won every first award and the Illinois State Poultry association silver trophy for the best display of Buff Leghorn chickens.

When delegates to the Republican national convention meet in Chicago next June, they will witness the dedication of the Hall of Science of a Century of Progress, Chicago's 1933 World's Fair. The Hall of Science is approximately 700 by 400 feet, two stories and a mezzanine. It is modern in design, gray, white, gold and red in color, and a combination of the mysterious and gay in effect.

The landscaping around the grounds of the Spring Grove fish hatchery was done without cost to the people of the state, according to an article in the Fox Valley Mirror, published by Leonard Fowler. Under the supervision of Ralph F. Bradford, director of the department of conservation, the work was done by regular employees and the native plants were brought from nearby woodlands.

Illinois sportsmen already are making plans for their annual confab, conference and powwow, as the Izaak Walton league has announced that it will hold its state convention in Bloomington, Ill., on February 17, 18, 19, 1932. Josiah Trehan is the president of the Illinois division of the league and will preside at this three-day conference when discussions of Illinois' outdoor resources will be heard.

At the annual convention of the Western Fruit Jobbers' association held in New Orleans, La., Walter H. Hill of Peoria was elected president.

President Harry Woodburn Chase of the University of Illinois has issued a warning against unscrupulous magazine salesmen who represent themselves as being connected with the university or "getting graduation credit" for the work. "No credit, no commissions, and no other consideration are in force or even recognized by any such persons," declared Doctor Chase. "Any fraudulent representations such as these should be reported immediately to your local authorities."

Charles C. Crawford, prominent in southern Illinois political circles and regarded as a potential candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, died at his home in Jonesboro on January 26.

Frank H. Rankin, assistant dean of the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois, has been appointed by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson to fill the vacancy on the George Washington Bicentennial commission. The vacancy was caused by the death of Lewis C. Torbet of Nason.

Director Ralph F. Bradford of the state department of conservation has received complaints that wild geese, sojourning in the vicinity of the state's waterfowl sanctuary in the Horseshoe lake section of southern Illinois, are so plentiful that they have become pests that threaten winter wheat production. The birds are more abundant than ever before because the weather has not been cold enough to force them farther south. Unless they move on toward the gulf, the 1932 wheat crop will suffer.

According to the Springfield Automobile club, car owners should preserve carefully the registration card that comes with 1932 license plates. The card is an absolute necessity for purposes of identification when the owner of the car desires to drive into Canada, Mexico, or other foreign countries. It also serves for general identification purposes even though the owner takes no trips out of the United States.

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom has ruled that interest on delinquent special assessments or on delinquent taxes of cities, school districts and other municipalities, should be paid into the county fund and used for county purposes. Attorney General Carlstrom also ruled that cities operating under the aldermanic form of government must hold primary elections on Tuesday, March 8, and not on Tuesday, March 1.

By driving automobiles during December, state food inspectors saved one-fourth of their transportation cost allotment, according to Stuart E. Pierson, director of the state department of agriculture. The average expense was 2.7 cents per mile.

Secretary of State William J. Stratton has announced the appointment of William Loren Reid of Springfield as head of the corporation department of his office to succeed A. C. Margrave, who resigned to accept appointment to the state tax commission.

The executive committee of the Texas commission which has been inspecting the site of a Century of Progress (Chicago World's Fair, 1933) and conferring with executives of the exposition, has announced through its chairman, J. C. Kennedy, Dallas, that a minimum of 8,000 square feet has been selected and reserved in the Hall of States for representative exhibits of Texas products and natural resources.

Business Opportunities in Illinois.

Operations at the Metal Stamping corporation, Streator, have been carried on steadily since the first of the year with a total employment of about seventy-five men and women.

The G. A. Bodenstein clothing manufacturing plant at Streator has returned to work and 120 people are employed.

The Alpha Portland Cement company's plant has resumed work at LaSalle. One hundred and fifty men are employed on the day shift and about forty more men will be placed on each of the night and early morning shifts. The resumption of operations will provide a $20,000 monthly payroll for the employees.

Contracts for construction of 25.74 miles of paving to cost $378,723 and a bridge project to cost $9,795 have been awarded by the state department of public works and buildings.

A charter from the state has been applied for by the welfare of association of Livingston which recently purchased from the New Stanton Coal company of St. Louis, the Livingston mine and a part of their findings. A plan is under way for the reopening of the mine in a short time.

The Brown Shoe corporation at Charleston has received orders that insure the operation of the plant at full capacity for at least three months. Indications point to the plant being operated with 1,100 or more employees for the rest of the present year.

The Brown shoe factory at Sullivan has just had one of the biggest payrolls in its course of operation in that district. The sum of $6,505.87 was paid to the shoe makers in one week.

The hat factory at Breese is working every day. There are 34 employees in the factory. The pressers have been putting in some overtime.

The Wabash shops in Decatur opened for a short work period on January 25, after having been closed since December 5.

According to the Decatur Association of Commerce, employment in that city increased 15.5 during the weeks of January 9-23.

A building program reaching upward from $4,500,000 will be launched this spring on Chicago's lake front in furthering the plans for a Century of Progress, the international exposition of 1933.

The Associated Apparel Company, Inc., Gossard branch, has increased its working force in the Belvidere plant, and expects to work at top speed during the next three months with the largest force in the history of the plant. Some overtime is being worked at the plant.

HARRIET LIVERMORE

A woman tropical, intense, in thought and act, in soul and sense, she blended in a like degree the vixen and the devotee.

THUS Whittier paints into the charmed circle about the New England hearth in "Snowbound" the picture of that "not unfavored, half-welcome guest," the woman evangelist. Nor was the picture an imaginary one. Harriet Livermore was a real woman and a somewhat notorious figure in a day when woman's place was emphatically in the home. She had traveled widely, preached frequently and eloquently of the imminent second coming of the Christ, and once had defied every tradition of her sex by talking before congress, and twice on the same day. For some time she had made her home with Lady Hester Stanhope until the two had quarreled over a horse they both desired to ride when the Messiah should reappear.

On her return to America she talked herself in and out of the good graces of the people of Plymouth, Mass. She offered to give a free lecture in the village church. Three people in succession entered while she was speaking, leaving the door open behind them and necessitating a pause in her eloquence and her request to close it. After the third repetition of the offense she became obviously furious and refused to proceed until one of the audience volunteered to act as door keeper. At the lecture's close the speaker announced she had for sale a certain brand of pills, and asked those who had interrupted her to redeem themselves by being the first to buy!

ALICE IN WONDERLAND

NOT many little girls just turned six find themselves suddenly become heroine of a story book destined to be translated into twelve languages, quoted almost as much as Shakespeare and more parodied than any other work in the English language! Nor was Alice Liddell, more familiar to us as Alice in Wonderland, so much different from most children, who find the books without pictures and conversation their elders read so very dull. But she could boast the friendship of Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, professor of mathematics at Oxford university, who could be persuaded on occasion to entertain story-hungry little girls with the most delightful of fairy fantasies.

Alice first had her adventures in Wonderland during an afternoon's boat ride on the river, with Dodgson at the oars and her two little sisters sitting happily in the stern. Then were created those "quaint events," the everlasting tea party with the Mad Hatter and the Sleepy Dormouse; the duchess' crazy garden party; the lobster quadrille, the curious lullaby for the baby who "sneezed because he knew it teased." So delighted was Alice with her adventures that the author printed them out, illustrated them, signed them with his pen name "Lewis Carroll" and presented them to her as "A Christmas Gift to a Dear Child in Memory of a Summer's Day." Just a few years ago Alice, in financial straits, sold the precious manuscript at auction for $77,000, and it was subsequently resold to an American collector for $150,000!

ROBINSON CRUSOE

IT IS because Daniel Defoe was a good newspaper man, able to see the "story" in a current news yarn concerning the rescue of a marooned sailor from a desert island that we have today that universal favorite "Robinson Crusoe."

The yarn upon which he based his book was about one Alexander Selkirk, English mariner born at Largo, Fifeshire, who early went into privateering in the South seas and by 1704 had earned promotion to command of the good ship Cinque Ports. As the result of a quarrel with his captain, he was at his own request set ashore at Juan Fernandez, a tiny island some 350 miles west of the coast of Chile, where he lived for four years and four months, much, perhaps, as did the character he inspired. He was finally rescued by Capt. Woodes Rogers and returned to civilization. At the time of his death Selkirk had attained rank of lieutenant on H. M. S. Weymouth.

Not only was it his story upon which Defoe built "Robinson Crusoe," but Juan Fernandez is today frequently known as Crusoe's island, and boasts not only many of the very umbrella trees that figure in the story, but a Crusoe's cave, and, near the summit of its highest mountain, Selkirk's Lookout, a tablet, placed there in 1938 in honor of the original Robinson Crusoe!

Heart Throbs

A scientific writer points out that the "amplification of radio brings to our ears the babble of the atoms in a mothball and the molecular clamor in the heart of an onion." The plain radio, unamplified, also brings the babble of the hard-boiled egg, and the clamor in the heart of the toothpaste agent.—Minneapolis Journal.

TAKING "TIME OUT" FOR MENTAL REST

Idleness May Constitute a Virtue at Times.

Many people are afraid of introspection. To the average American up-and-comer, meditation and idleness are sins of the first water. To be active, continually and unceasingly active, is to prove one's worth to the world. And yet, without discrediting activity, it can easily be proven that most great men and most men of unusual accomplishment are at times as physically idle as any statue in a public park. They take time out to think, to meditate and to let their minds wander.

Gandhi, the man who probably is wielding the greatest influence upon the earth today, sets aside one day a week in which he keeps silent while he listens to others, or to his own inner voice; while he meditates and ponders and lets the accumulated problems of the last seven days sink deeply into his brain. The story is told of a young executive who so irritated his subordinates by sitting and looking out of the window day in day out that they complained to the president of the company. The president heard them out and then said: "The young man of whom you complain once thought up an idea which has earned for this company more than $1,000,000, and he did it while looking out of the window." A similar tale concerns a rising young Broadway producer. He never is in his office, but spends most of his time sitting in an easy chair at home. Once or twice a year he develops an idea which, when put into action, brings him and the people associated with him thousands of dollars.

It is not the purpose here to encourage indolence. We merely seek to emphasize the value of thought and of frequent periods of mental, rather than physical, activity. They are good for the soul and good for the brain. Sunday is the day when most people can best take advantage of the opportunity to live quietly, to rest and gather strength for the work of the coming week, to think on what has happened and what has been accomplished and upon what is to be done. Aside from its religious significance, Sunday is valuable to human beings. It represents the closest approach that many of them have to a day of silence.—Ohio State Journal.

Swedes Enjoy Long Life

A Swedish record for longevity seems to be held by the inhabitants of the little parish of Kisa, in central Sweden. The latest figures showed that out of a population of 4,000, 92 persons were over eighty, and of these, ten were over ninety. Some years ago Kisa had Sweden's oldest inhabitant, the farmer Sven Eriksson, who died at one hundred and five and a half years.

"Lucile is the Happiest Girl"

So many mothers nowadays talk about giving their children fruit juices, as if this were a new discovery. As a matter of fact, for over fifty years, mothers have been accomplishing results far surpassing anything you can secure from home prepared fruit juices, by using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup, which is prepared under the most exacting laboratory supervision from ripe California Figs, richest of all fruits in laxative and nourishing properties.

It's marvelous to see how bilious, weak, feverish, sallow, constipated, under-nourished children respond to its gentle influence; how their breath clears up, color flames in their cheeks, and they become sturdy, playful, energetic again. A Western mother, Mrs. H. J. Stoll, Valley P. O., Nebraska, says: "My little daughter, Roma Lucile, was constipated from babyhood. I became worried about her and decided to give her some California Fig Syrup. It stopped her constipation quick; and the way it improved her color and made her pick up made me realize how run-down she had been. She is so sturdy and well now, and always in such good humor that neighbors say she's the happiest girl in the West."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is limited, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

Useful Hobby

"Say, dad," cried the boy home from college. "I took up horseback riding, too."

"Fine," replied the father. "Now you can get a job as mounted policeman if you don't like the office."

What Started It All!

Wife—See my new shoes, dear? How do you like them?
Hubby—They're immense!

It never kills a law to execute it.

"Save your strength — and get a whiter wash, too!"

"No wonder you're always tired! The hard work you do on Mondays is enough to wear you out for the rest of the week. And it's all so unnecessary! You can get whiter, brighter clothes just by soaking them in Rinso suds."

No more washboards

Millions of women have said goodbye to washboards. Rinso saves scrubbing—saves the clothes. It gets clothes so white, even boiling isn't needed.

Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps. Creamy, lasting suds. Safest for finest linens—washable colored things, too.

The makers of 40 famous washers recommend Rinso. It's wonderful for dishwashing, too. Get the BIG package today.

SORE THROAT

FIVE minutes after you rub on Musterole your throat should begin to feel less sore! Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salt—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Agreement

He (under mistletoe)—Dearest, I love you terribly.
She—You certainly do.

RHEUMATIC PAINS relieved this quick way

If the stabbing pains of rheumatism are crippling you, rub on good old St. Jacobs Oil. Relief comes in a minute! This famous remedy draws out pain and inflammation. It's the quick, safe way to stop aches and pains of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Lumbago or Backache, Neuralgia or swollen joints. No blistering. No burning. Get a small bottle at any drug store.

O. Henry's Short Stories

Jimmy Hayes and Muriel—III

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) (WNU Service)

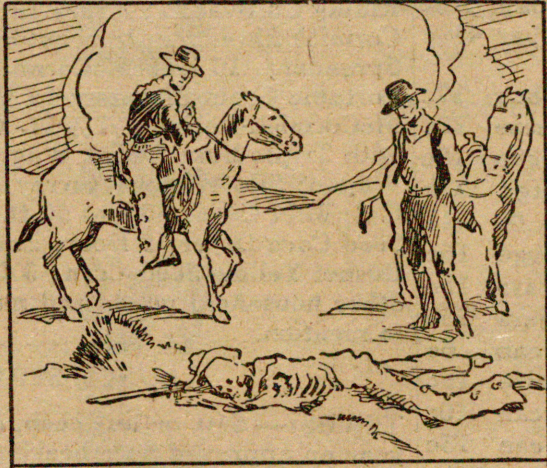

Drawn by John Hix

The Mexican bandit gang had got away, but Jimmy Hayes was missing, along with Muriel, his frog. Jimmy had never been in a skirmish before, and the rangers suspected that Jimmy had turned coward at the whiz of bullets. Never before had a ranger—shown the white feather. The company was gloomy. Months passed by and still that cloud of cowardice hung above the camp. A year later the troop was in the same country looking for smugglers. One day they came across the skeletons of three Mexicans.

Their clothing identified them. The largest had once been Sebastiano Saldar, the bandit. Their rusting Winchesters all pointed in the same direction. The rangers rode in that direction 50 yards and found another skeleton. "Some cowpuncher," they said,

And then, from beneath the rags of the dead man there wriggled a horned-toad, a faded red ribbon around his neck. Mutely it told the story of how Jimmy had pursued the bandits, how he had gone down in triumph, upholding the honor of the rangers.

ORLAND PARK

Wm. Raney who recently underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis is out and around again and shows no bad effects of his experience.

At a recent meeting of the directors of school District No. 135, Orland Park a resolution was adopted setting forth to whom and under what conditions the auditorium of the school may be given or rented for public use and establishing a prescribed rental for same.

It is being persistently rumored that the Wabash railroad is negotiating the removal of one of the runs from the Orland suburban schedule. According to report, the train that leaves Orland at 6:15 a. m., is to be taken off and the passengers ordinarily carried on this run be provided for by having the thru train which arrives at Orland at 6:01 a. m. run local from Orland into Chicago. The train that leaves Chicago at 6:20 p. m., is also reported as being the last to be dropped and the place to be taken by the Decatur local which at present leaves Chicago at 9:30 p. m. and which under the new arrangement, would leave Chicago around 6:20 or 6:30 p. m. Should there be any foundation of fact for these rumors, it behooves the people of the communities dependant on Wabash transportation to enter a protest against such a change which would mean that anyone missing the 6:20 train or who had to work an hour or so later in the evening, would have to look for other than railroad transportation or remain in Chicago all night.

ORLAND LEGION POST IN UNEMPLOYMENT DRIVE

A recent bulletin from the office of the National Commander of the American Legion calls upon every Legion Post to formulate and get behind some definite plan to aid in the solving of the unemployment situation in its individual community. Because the community served by Orland Park Post comprising as it does the villages of Worth, Palos Park and Orland Park and the surrounding territory, is essentially a rural or residential domain, there is an almost total absence of manufacturing or other business enterprises such as are commonly considered employment centers. Our business houses are those of the type handling commodities or catering to local needs and are, with a few exceptions not of a nature such as to require or to be able to support the employment of others than the owners and members of their own families. The same condition, outside of certain seasons applies to the farms. Hence, practically all the unemployed in our district are among those who were previously employed in manufacturing or commercial centers of Chicago, Blue Island, Joliet, etc. The question of endeavoring to find regular employment in our district where there are no institutions requiring or able to support added help is one that is difficult to answer.

At the last meeting of the Orland Park Post, in pursuance to the National Commander's request for each post to work out some plan to relieve unemployment conditions, it was agreed that the only plan feasible in our district would be as follows:

Any member unemployed and desiring employment of any kind should list his desire with the Post Adjutant together with such data about himself as to what kind of work he desires, what his abilities are and what kind of work he would accept.

That anyone needing a man for any kind of work, either full time or part time, odd job or regular line work be instructed to communicate with the adjutant stating just what he requires and the adjutant in turn would then, from his list be able to fill the call with a competent man.

It is hoped that anyone in our community who can use a man's services for any kind of work whatsoever either for a few hours, a day a week or permanently, will communicate with the adjutant of Orland Park Post, Comrade Lawrence Cahill, telephone Orland 81 or address care of I. N. R. Beatty Lumber Co., Orland Park, Ill.

4. The school body enjoyed a holiday last Friday and will also have another on Washington's birthday.

5. The latter part of March, there will be staged a marble tournament for all pupils of the school. There will be classes for each division of the school and a grand champion of the school will also be selected. Winners will be picked in ordinary competitive play and in "lagging."

The boxing champions of the high school have been picked. They are: heavyweight, Bill Newcomb and Leo Putz; welterweight, Gus Zerbs and Eldon Nicolai; lightweight, Gordon Kay and Ralph Kimmel; flyweight, Jim Pomeroy and Alvin Stelter. The four grammar school champions are Frank Steinmetz, John Heim, Bob Lyall and Virgil Reats.

The school has organized a monitor system in the corridors designed to develop individual responsibility. Under the supervision of Mr. White, Frank Steinmetz has been made captain of the monitors and places all his men. In its operation so far, the system has proved invaluable.

Custer Speaking Campaign Opens

Before thousands of his friends and neighbors, who have known him since the time he cast his first ballot, Omer N. Custer, Republican candidate for governor of Illinois will open his speaking campaign at Galesburg, his home city, Saturday February 20.

The suggestion of the Custer For Governor Rally came from Mr. Custer's lifelong friends and neighbors who petitioned him to honor his home city by opening his speaking campaign there.

In his address, Mr. Custer will discuss all the important issues of the campaign. It will be his first statement to the voters since the announcement of his candidacy for governor. Later, he will reaffirm his position and restate his policies in state-wide tour, on which he will start a few days later.

Arrangements for the rally are being made by the Republican County Central Committee of Knox county; members of the Knox County Board of Supervisors; city officials of Galesburg, and the Galesburg Chamber of Commerce. Those who signed the invitations being sent out from Galesburg are E. H. Blaich, chairman, Knox County Republican Central Committee; H. I. Epley, secretary; Mayor Joe E. Anderson; City Clerk Ben J. Huff; E. U. Shumaker, chairman, Knox County Board of Supervisors; George A. Larson, clerk; R. Winn Miller, president.

Mokena School News

Last week the name of Edwin Mau was omitted from the list of pupils who were neither absent nor tardy during the first semester. This was due to an error in the records of the school. This brings the number of pupils who were neither absent nor tardy during the first semester to 48, showing that 30.38 per cent of the pupils did not miss school and were not tardy once.

Mokena High School is proud of two of its graduates, Ruth Geuther and Virginia Poulsen. Both of their names appear on the honor roll of the Joliet Township High School among those who made an average of ninety or better during the first semester.

Last Friday evening the Mokena High School first and second teams won two victories at Beecher. The second team score was 24-4 and the first team won 58-12, twelve Mokena players taking part in the first scrap. The Lineups are as follows:

Religious Educational Group Plan Big Meet and Banquet

The Young People's Conference under the auspices of the Young Peoples' Division of the Will County Council of Religious Education will be held Monday, Feb. 22nd at the first Baptist Church, Joliet.

This conference is for young people and leaders of young people of all denominations in Will County. The theme of the morning session will be "Young People and the Question of Leadership." Registration will be from 9 to 9:30 a. m., followed by a worship service in charge of the young people. Dr. Harvey Mums, County Advisor of the International Council, will give an address in preparation for the discussion groups which will meet with able leaders.

A noon luncheon and program with the interests of new voters in mind will be the next feature. There will be an address by a well known and able Christian citizen, followed by directed recreation.

The afternoon service will open with a worship service in charge of the young people.

Percy R. Haywood, Chicago, a representative of the International Council will prepare the group for the discussion period, using the theme "Young People and the Use of Leisure Time." A round table discussion will follow. Before the evening banquet there will again be a recreation period. The ladies of the Baptist Church will serve the banquet and there will be pep songs and entertainment, after which Mr. Haywood will again address the audience on "Youth Faces the New Day."

This should be a splendid way to spend Washington's Birthday and every church in the county should be well represented.

Rev. Royal V. Stiller of Plainfield is the Young People's Leader in the Will County Council. Rev. P. G. Van Zandt, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Joliet will take an active part in the conference.

R. I. Reports Decrease In Crossing Accidents

During the year 1931, there was a decrease in grade crossing automobile accidents on the Rock Island Lines of 29.2 per cent, a decrease in persons injured of 16.8 per cent and a decrease in deaths of 19.6 per cent, as compared with 1930, according to figures prepared by the operating department.

In 1931, there were 414 accidents in this class of which 144, or 34.8 per cent, were caused by automobiles striking the sides of trains, 41 caused by automobiles being stalled on crossings, and 54 due to striking automobiles on crossings where crossing flagmen or flashlight signals are maintained by the railroad. There were only 108, or 26 per cent of the total automobile accidents, occurring at unprotected crossings and these accidents were principally of a minor nature causing little or no damage to persons or property.

The most serious results from accidents were those of automobiles stalled on crossings and automobiles running into sides of trains, which railroad authorities claim are avoidable with ordinary precaution on the part of motorists.

A charge which is often made against the Lutheran church is this:

You are old-fashioned. You still preach ancient doctrines. You must change your religion to conform to modern needs.

The Lutheran Church answers: We are as old-fashioned as the Bible, and we are proud of it. Our doctrine is as "ancient" as God. We do not change our religion because the needs of man today are the same as those of Adam, Moses, the Pharisees of Egypt, the prophets, the Jews and Gentiles, yea, as those of all men of all centuries. Man is essentially the same. He is, by nature, a depraved sinner. Psalm 143, 2; Isaiah 64, 6; Romans 5, 12; 1 Corinthians 2, 14.

To say that we of today need a religion which has advanced to meet our special needs, shows lack of knowledge of human nature. All men are sinners, therefore, all men need that which saves from sin. The head of the Church, Christ, Who has put the church into this world and unto whom alone the church is responsible, says, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel bids us to declare ALL the counsel of God, to preach the whole Bible, as God has given it, without adding thereto or subtracting therefrom."

Yes, we of today need the Gospel which offers us forgiveness of sins. If the Gospel offers us forgiveness of sins you cannot accept the same unless you admit that you have sinned. But you cannot admit that you have sinned unless you hear the Law of God. Therefore St. Paul exhorts Timothy: "Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long suffering and doctrine. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they shall turn away from the truth. They no longer want to hear that they are sinners."

The Lutheran Church preaches what Christ and the apostles preached: "Repent and believe." Only after hearing this Gospel of Christ can a man pray: "God be merciful to me a sinner." By this Gospel, sin is abolished, righteousness restored, souls saved, God glorified. In short, the motto of the Lutheran Church is: A Changeless Christ for a Changing World.

Evening Service 7:30 o'clock

We are approaching that season of the year which is held sacred by all Christians. Sympathy and reverence will call forth the greatest from this season. A closed mind and heart will find nothing. It has always been so.

Sunday evening the young people of Mrs. Paulsen's class will have charge of the evening service. They plan a service built around the memories of those two great leaders of the nation whose birthdays are in this month.

P. T. A. Notes

The next meeting of the P. T. A. will be held in the school gym., Tuesday, February 23rd at 3:30 p. m. All mothers are asked to come.

The St. Mary Catholic church services were held in the St. Mary Hall Sunday morning, due to the chimney on the church being blown down during the storm Thursday morning.

A new organ has been installed in the St. Mary church recently. This organ is the very latest in design and is a very valuable addition to the church equipment.

Born a son to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spies at Silver Cross hospital last week.

Mrs. E. P. Krapp is ill with an attack of flu.

Miss Evelyn Wachter entertained a company of schoolmates at a valentine party at her home Sunday night. Games were played and refreshments were served and all enjoyed a fine time.

Miss Elmira Koeller has returned to the University of Illinois after spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Koeller.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Hall and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Tooley attended a meeting at the home of Homer B. Grommon in Wheatland Township, Wednesday night which was an expression of the voters of various parts of Will County to have Mr. Grommon enter the political race for the office of county auditor.

Kenneth Benson is confined to his home with a hurt leg.

Contest is well under way. Richard Sippel's side is leading with four points. Wesley Cappel's is next with two points. These points were made by passing the compass test.

The knot board is nearly completed. Harold Balaz is putting on the finishing touches.

Among the contests are a fifty mile bicycle ride to be finished in ten hours; and a fourteen mile hike in one day.

Watch for the window display in Sippel's store of the project of individual scout which bring points to their side.

Hiking weather is not far off and rumors are going about that plans for a long camp are beginning to grow.

Scouts throughout the United States have been and are still celebrating the twenty-second Scouting Anniversary. A feature of this year's celebration was the radio programs. Scouting is now twenty-two years old and still growing.

LUTHERAN MISSION

Rev. Paul E. Schauer
New Lenox, Illinois

The Rev. Paul E. Schauer of Mokena announces that a divine service will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the English language in the Grace Episcopal church. The Sunday school meets every Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

The basis of the sermon which the Rev. Mr. Schauer will deliver, will be the Word of the dutiful Son: "Woman, behold thy son!" "Behold thy mother". On the Cross, amidst agony and pain, Jesus shows His love to His mother. He provides a home for her with the beloved disciple John. What a comfort in these days of distress, for those without work and without food and clothing, to know that Jesus, their savior is caring for them in a loving and kind way.

Come and bring others, and experience the blessing you will receive in attending the Lutheran Mission. Welcome all.

The Nation's Greatest Son

This portrait of George Washington, highly prized possession of Marshall Solberg, Chicago, is claimed by him to have been painted by Gilbert Stuart. It bears the year 1794, and is signed by the master in an inconspicuous way. Some have thought that the earliest "Stuart Washington" was painted in 1795, but such is not the case, for John Jay gave Gilbert Stuart a letter to Washington which Stuart delivered while congress was in session in the year 1794 and Stuart refers to this in correspondence with relatives. It was then that one of the three sittings occurred. There were many portraits of George Washington painted by Gilbert Stuart, but there were only three sittings, so that many of the portraits were copied by Stuart from either completed pictures or sketches. It was, of course, not entirely unusual for great painters to make preliminary sketches of their subjects, although they did on many occasions entirely complete their paintings at sittings. This latter procedure was followed, it is thought, by Gilbert Stuart in this portrait. If this is so, it stands unique among the "Stuart Washingtons."

According to a volume in Mr. Solberg's library, Gilbert Stuart admired this picture so much that he retained it himself and would not part with it for many years thereafter. When it landed in the hands of Congressman Gilbert of western New York he loved it so much that he asked that it might be the last object for him to gaze upon in this life.

Washington, Man, Patriot, Statesman

COURAGE, physical and moral, was a part of his nature; and, whether in battle or in the midst of popular excitement, he was fearless of danger and regardless of consequences to himself. (Sparks, Jared—The Life of George Washington, p. 458.)

At all times and amid all conditions Washington rang true to the note of a splendid manhood. Hypocrisy and a trafficking in expedients for popular applause no more match with his life than the crime of murder. He had little of the captivating style of speech or manner but regard for the nobility of his character, rather than any rhetorical art or charm of personal address on his part, kept wavering lines from retreat in battle and from mutiny amid privation and suffering to which our neglect had exposed the soldiers of the Revolution. (Underwood, Oscar—The Career and the Words of Washington, p. 12.) (State Society of Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Pa., February 22, 1912.)

His Personal Triumph

Then came the horrors of Valley Forge and of the winters in Morris county. Those were the days when desertions were many and enlistments were few, when Washington dared not give open battle and there was hardly left to him a place for retreat. Then came the Conway conspiracy, and the ambition of Gates, and the cowardice of Lee and the treason of Arnold, and a series of persecutions so petty, so bitter, so malignant, that it is amazing how Washington survived them. Then, too, came defeats like that at Brandywine, and battles of uncertain meaning like that at Monmouth. . . .

It is easy for us as we read these events in the light of the issue to keep up our courage and understand the triumph that finally came, but it was a very different thing for Washington. Congress was weak, meddlesome, and vacillating. The soldiers were raw, undisciplined and sometimes mutinous. There were jealousies and libels and forgeries and slanders almost beyond our present ability to believe. . . .

When I recall Washington's calmness in the midst of exasperating annoyances, his unselfish loyalty when surrounded by cupidity and jealousy and hatred, his faith that put courage into the hearts of men who marched hungry and left bloody footprints in the snow; when I remember how after eight years of this and more he emerged victorious, as calm in victory as he had been serene in defeat, I do not wonder that Frederick the Great is said to have pronounced George Washington's campaign in the Jerseys the most brilliant in military annals. . . . (Barton, William E.—George Washington.)

Shared Men's Sufferings

Washington did not leave his men and go home to live in luxury, but stayed to endure privation with them. Only he who reads his letters written during these trying times can appreciate his troubles and anxieties. (McLaughlin, Andrew C.—History of the American Nation, p. 168.)

Behold him (George Washington) in 1775 taking leave of his family and his home, and hastening to the relief of a distant and then unknown part of America. See him transforming and cementing a band of rusties into an army. Follow him to the field of battle, and see him first in danger and last out of it. Go with him into Valley Forge, and see him sharing the hunger, the cold, the fatigue of every soldier in the camp. Was there ever such fortitude in adversity? Was there ever such moderation in the hour of victory? (McMaster, John B.—History of the People of the United States, Vol. I, p. 465.)

Washington's Victory

On only one point did there seem to be unanimity and accord. That was that the dogged prosecution of the war and the ultimate victory must be credited to George Washington. Others had fought valiantly and endured hardships and fatigues and gnawing suspense, but without him, who never wavered, they could not have gone on. (Thayer, William R.—George Washington, p. 128.)

The American revolution from a military point of view was a group of little wars rather than a single war. The one integrating force was the person of the great commander, but George Washington held the army and the cause together by his exhaustless patience and courage rather than by any comprehensive plan of war. (Muzey, David S.—History of the American People, p. 130.)

To Washington no duty, however obscure, was unimportant, and no deviation from duty, however trifling, was possible. (Hoar, George F.—Washington, p. 31.) (Chicago, February 23, 1903.)

Put Patriotism First

Washington was an incorruptible patriot. He was one of the few rich men who was not a Tory. A very large proportion of men of large means sided with the British crown; nor must we too hastily condemn them. But Washington, who had more to lose than almost any other man in the thirteen colonies, was not blinded by vested interests, nor bound to conservative action by his wealth and station.

For the sake of the country which he loved he suffered innumerable hardships, he was stung by ingratitude and hurt by slander, but he stood firm in his loyalty to the cause he had espoused, and was faithful to the end. (Barton, William E.—George Washington.)

There is a life that is worth living now, as it was worth living in the former days, and that is the honest life, the useful life, the unselfish life, cleansed by devotion to an ideal. There is a battle that is worth fighting now, as it was worth fighting then, and that is the battle for justice and equality. To make our city and our state free in fact as well as in name: to break the rings that strangle real liberty, and to keep them broken; to cleanse, so far as in our power lies, the foundations of our national life from political, commercial, and social corruption; to teach our sons and daughters, by precept and example, the honor of serving such a country as America—that is work worthy of the finest manhood and womanhood. . . . The well educated are those who see deepest into the meaning and the necessity of that work. Nor shall their labor be for naught, nor the reward of their sacrifice fail them. For high in the firmament of human destiny are set the stars of faith in mankind, and unselfish courage, and loyalty to the ideal; and while they shine, the Americanism of Washington and the men who stood with him shall never, never die. (Van Dyke, Henry—The Americanism of Washington, pp. 70-72.)

Man of Firm Friendships

The chief thought that runs through all the sayings is to practice self-control, and no man ever displayed that most difficult of virtues to such a degree as George Washington. (Lodge, Henry C.—George Washington (American Statesmen), Vol. I, p. 51.)

Solitude, indeed, is the last quality that an intelligent student of his career would ascribe to him. Dignified and reserved he was, undoubtedly; and as this manner was natural to him, he won more true friends by using it than if he had disguised himself in a forced familiarity and worn his heart upon his sleeve. But from first to last he was a man who did his work in the bonds of companionship, who trusted his comrades in the great enterprise even though they were not his intimates, and who neither sought nor occupied a lonely eminence of unshared glory. (Van Dyke, Henry—The Americanism of Washington, pp. 4-5.)

His passions were strong, and sometimes they broke out with vehemence, but he had the power of checking them in an instant. Perhaps self-control was the most remarkable trait of his character. It was in part the effect of his discipline; yet he seems by nature to have possessed the power to a degree which has been denied to other men. (Sparks, Jared—The Life of George Washington, p. 460.)

Fight Fruit Pests in Winter MonthsOil Sprays Effective When Leaves Are Off.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture, 1—WNU Service)

Eight years of spraying of dormant fruit trees under a wide range of weather conditions indicates that there is comparatively little danger of injury to fully dormant trees from a properly prepared oil emulsion or miscible oil at the recommended strengths.

Oil sprays are particularly effective in the control of the San Jose scale, as well as of several other important fruit pests, and are now in common use for the spraying of fruit trees when the leaves are off, says a bulletin on dormant tree spraying, published by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The publication, Farmers' Bulletin 1676-F, "Lubricating-Oil Sprays for Use on Dormant Fruit Trees," gives directions for preparing several oil sprays and lists nine kinds of insects and related creatures against which the oil-spray method is especially effective. These include the San Jose scale, scurfy scale, terrapin scale, cottony peach scale, European red mite and clover mite, fruit-tree leaf roller, pear psylla, and apple aphids.

Farmers' Bulletin 1676-F may be obtained free by writing to the office of information, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Value of Concentrate in Hogs' Ration Shows

Pork costs go up when the protein concentrate in the ration runs too low, says a writer in Capper's Farmer. Eric Peterson, Pembina county, North Dakota, raised 61 pigs last summer on cracked wheat, barley, oats, alfalfa pasture and a protein concentrate. Eager to know what the shotes were doing, he weighed them each month and computed the cost of the gain. The cost ranged from $3.50 to $6 a hundred for the various months. The highest cost, $6, was for the month in which harvest fell. At that time he ran short of concentrate, and thought he did not have time to get more. As a result gains were slow, and the amount of gain for each hundred pounds of gain was increased. The following month, when the pigs had plenty of concentrate, gains were speeded up, and the cost dropped to $4.50 a hundred.

Despite the slump the pigs averaged 204 pounds each at 189 days. They brought $1.100. Production cost was about $600.

Roughage for Cows

Roughage is the foundation of any dairy cow ration. Without a good home-grown roughage, a profitable dairy enterprise is almost impossible. Grain or concentrate feed is purchased more or less on nearly all farms to enable the cows to pay more for the home-grown feeds.

There is a vast difference in the value of roughages. The high-protein legume hays reduce the cost of the grain ration needed to maintain production. Alfalfa hay, oats, barley and corn make an excellent ration for cows giving up to 45 pounds of butterfat a month. Above that, some high-protein supplement, such as linseed meal, cottonseed meal or gluten meal, is necessary.

The low-protein roughages like timothy, wild hay, fodder and oat straw need a considerable percentage of the high protein feeds in addition to the cheap grains.

Feeding for Profit

The "art" of feeding may not be entirely a misnomer. Keith Kenagy, Page county, Iowa, says it plays an important part in getting profits from a dairy herd.

Mr. Kenagy had been feeding cows a variety of feeds to maintain production through winter. In April he kept his cows off pasture and bought more hay. May 1 he turned the cows to pasture. Tests showed production increased in May from 24.1 pounds a cow to 37.5 pounds.

The extra ton or two of hay Mr. Kenagy bought in April enabled the pasture to get a good start so the cows got the full benefit of the change to green succulent feed.—Capper's Farmer.

Around the Farm

The acreage of winter wheat sown this fall, according to estimates, is about 10.5 per cent less than in 1930 and 11 per cent under the average for the last three years.

Colony or individual hoghouses are easy and inexpensive to build. They are warmer and more sanitary than most central farrowing houses. If such houses are not available, they can be built during the winter so they will be ready for farrowing time.

The farm well should be located on high ground, 300 feet from toilet and manure pile, and properly developed.

With fertile soil at least 20 bushels of potato seed may be used profitably to the acre, using one and one-half ounce pieces spaced 10 to 11 inches in the row.

Plump alfalfa seeds of a bright olive-green color nearly always germinate well. Shriveled seeds or those of a brownish color usually germinate poorly.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an ounce and use as directed. Fine particles of aged skin peel off until all defects such as pimples, liver spots, tan and freckles disappear. Skin is then soft and velvety. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. To remove wrinkles use one ounce Powdered Skarolite dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. At drug stores.

Island Bird Sanctuary

St. Kilda, a lonely island some seven miles in circumference off the outer Hebrides, has been sold by the former owner, Sir Reginald MacLeod, to an ornithologist who wishes his identity to remain hidden. This buyer plans to keep the island in its natural state so it may remain an ocean sanctuary for the sea birds which migrate there in great numbers. Under the terms of the proposed plan it will be possible for tourists to land and visit the huge island aviary, but no buildings will be placed on the land.

CHILD need REGULATING?*CASTORIA WILL*DO IT!

When your child needs regulating, remember this: the organs of babies and children are delicate. Little bowels must be gently urged—never forced. That's why Castoria is used by so many doctors and mothers. It is specially made for children's ailments; contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. You can safely give it to young infants for colic pains. Yet it is an equally effective regulator for older children. The next time your child has a little cold or fever, or a digestive upset, give him the help of Castoria, the children's own remedy. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

THE STORY

Six bandits hold up the steamer, Midnight Sun, on the Mackenzie, kill Jimmy Montgomery, and escape with gold dust and furs. At the Mounted Police post at Fort Endurance, Sergt. Alan Baker disputes with his incompetent superior, Inspector Haskell, regarding plans for the capture of the bandits. Baker starts out in the police launch with five men. At the MacMillan trading post, Joyce MacMillan is thrilled at the arrival of the police launch. She had expected to marry Baker, and had been stunned at the news that he was to marry Elizabeth Spaulding. Stolen furs are found on the MacMillan place and evidence points to Joyce's father, Alan leads his expedition up the big Alouka. Compelled by Haskell's foolish orders to divide the party, Alan fails to capture the bandits, and returns to Fort Endurance. Haskell blames him for the failure and Alan is allowed to buy out of the Mounted on condition that he absolve Haskell from blame. Alan starts out of the country in a motor canoe. He meets "Buz-zard" Featherof, famous aviator, and enlists him in the enterprise. "Slob-ice" Jensen, leader of the bandits, plans to capture Joyce.

Thinking over his situation, he remembered how Baker had demanded to lead a patrol to the Inconnu river and lie in wait there. Baker had said they would try to escape by that route. He knew what he was talking about. Haskell realized he knew.

Should he send a detail to the Inconnu?

The more Haskell pondered the idea, the more it appealed to him. It was reasonably sure to succeed. It would be the positive action he needed. On his wall map he hunted for the Inconnu. He found a small channel of the Mackenzie by that name, but Baker's Inconnu was some large river. Perhaps the chart listed it as "The Unknown," the English translation of the name. He searched for an Inconnu and an Unknown, but found neither. Such a stream simply was not shown on his map.

When Little Otter came in to the post for a supply of chewing stemo, Haskell pumped him. The sub-chief had only the haziest idea where the Inconnu was, but Indian-like he would not admit his ignorance. He started talking, gesticulating—till Haskell caught him in a flat self-contradiction and kicked him out of the cabin in angry disgust.

The Inconnu patrol blew up. There was nothing Haskell could do about capturing those bandits. He knew that if Williamson asked why no move had been made, the short-handedness at the post would be at least some excuse. Besides, one of the other detachments, over on Hudson's bay or southeast in the Reindeer Lake country, would probably nail those bandits and the affair would blow over.

Those rainy imprisoning days, as he sat in his cabin and looked out along the slope for a mere glimpse of Elizabeth Spaulding, he was tortured by the question of why she was still here, and what stood between her and Baker. Why had Baker bought out in such hot haste and left this North country that was his home? Was Elizabeth waiting for him, or had they split up?

Sometimes it seemed to Haskell that his appointment to this northern post had not been a mere vagary of luck but a manifest act of destiny, that he might meet Elizabeth Spaulding. His triumph over Baker, his commission as a Mounted officer, his career in the Mounted—what did the whole of it weigh as against the prospect of losing Elizabeth after he had found her? With the sincerity of the only passionate love in his life, he felt that if Baker married her and took her away, his victory over the ex-sergeant would be a grinning mockery.

Late one quiet evening, when Bill Hardsock was gone on patrol, Haskell saw Elizabeth go up the slope to the cabin which had been Baker's, and light the candles there, and after a quarter-hour come away again. Tripping down the grassy terrace to Mrs. Drummond's flower garden, she sat down alone by the edge of it.

He went out of his lonesome cabin and out along the twilight slope toward her.

Hat in hand, Haskell came up. With cold sardonic eyes she surveyed him, amused at his humility. Toward her the man had no pride left.

She reminded him sharply: "I believe I asked you not to talk with me again."

"Yes, you did," he said humbly. "I haven't forgotten. It's made these last couple weeks pretty miserable. But when I saw you over there to-night . . . Elizabeth, won't you let me—can't I stay just a little while? I got some news before yesterday that cut me up pretty bad. . . ." He waited for her to comment, but she said nothing. "You remember last winter I said my father was in poor health? I got a radiogram night before last about—about him."

Elizabeth understood that his father had died. She was quite well aware that Haskell was not exactly stricken by the news, though he was trying to play upon her sympathy.

She wondered why he was discussing the matter with her now.

As he went on talking of it, she began to see his reason. He mentioned the big country estate outside of Cobham, the town house in Ottawa, the extensive and valuable timber limits up the Kiamiki. When he hinted at himself being the only heir and the owner of all this, she saw his whole drift.

The news left her entirely cold. From his treatment of Alan she knew how tricky and dishonorable he could be. He was trying to bait her. . . . She smiled sardonically at him for being so crude about it. Probably he thought to make her his Ottawa mistress.

The affections of such a man were evanescent at best, and certainly quicksand to build upon. Imagining her relations with this man if she ever allowed herself to become dependent on him, she saw him staving off marriage by the old threadbare dodges, and at last turning coldly away when passion went. Alan Baker in time would go farther than Haskell and his Cobham estate. Alan was every way more a man. He was honest, he could be depended upon.

Angry and contemptuous, she rose. "I've got to go. But there's something I really must thank you for, inspector."

"To thank me for?" He too had risen; he was leaning toward her eagerly. "I'm glad . . . I didn't know I'd done—"

"You didn't intend it as a favor. But it was." With mocking irony in her tones she went on: "Last winter Alan was offered a very splendid position in Victoria. I wanted him to take it. You used to say he was a non-com with no prospects, and that was somewhat as I felt. He didn't want to leave. He wanted to stay in service and live here in the North. Just when he was wavering, you forced his hand. You made him buy out, and so you made our marriage possible. I'm awfully grateful to you, really. You didn't realize what a favor you were doing."

She left him standing there, staring after her, dazed and speechless.

That same evening, only an hour later, Haskell made a discovery so

"Are You Getting Married?" He Demanded Sarcastically.

startling that in some measure it took his tortured thoughts away from Elizabeth.

A knock sounded on the door, and Whipple came in with a report.

"Sir, last week I missed fifty gallons of gas and five of oil from our stores. I thought it might be a paper mistake, but today I checked up again and we're short still more."

"Well, what about it?" Haskell snapped.

"Nothing, sir; nothing at all," Whipple said hastily. He saw that his chief was in a vicious mood, and he backed away to the door. "I just thought that you would like to know, sir. Most likely some half-breed with an outboard motor is stealing this, sir." And he closed the door quietly.

Alone again, unable to bear his stinging thoughts, Haskell turned in desperation to the service radio set in an effort to distract himself. As he had done on evenings past, he picked up an Edmonton station. Among the orders, news and personal messages, he heard that an aviator named Featherof and another man, name unknown, had stolen a machine gun, a propeller, pack-chute, flying instruments and other things at Edmonton; and escaping in Featherof's monoplane, had last been sighted following the Alberta and Great Waterways railroad toward McMurray. The posts were warned to be on the lookout for the plane and to arrest the criminals on sight.

The name and description of Featherof meant nothing to Haskell, but the description of the other person made him thoughtful. Tall, rangy, sandy-haired, gray-eyed, with a long prominent scar across his left temple—that description would fit Alan Baker to a dot. And Baker had gone south and might conceivably have reached Edmonton.

Haskell pondered this possibility a minute and then dismissed it. It was Bill Hardsock who innocently opened his eyes to the truth.

Knocking, entering, standing before the desk, Bill requested:

"Sir, if you don't mind, I've got three days free time coming to me, and if you don't mind I'd like to take them now. I'd like to have them in a row, if you don't mind—"

"I'm short of men as it is," Haskell cut him off. "You can't go. That's that!"

It wasn't "that" for Bill. Refusing to be driven out, he planted himself there wide-legged and pleaded for his three days—pleaded till Haskell saw that the corporal must have some special and urgent reason for wanting off duty.

"Are you getting married?" he demanded sarcastically.

"No, sir," Bill answered, with more outward respect than he had ever shown before. "I—I want to—go trout fishing."

Haskell angered. He started to order Bill out of the cabin on penalty of c. b. But then he suddenly checked himself, he half-rose from his chair, gasping, with a revelation volting through his brain.

There it was—the whole crashing truth! Baker's strange haste to buy out, his strange journey out to civilization, that plane coming north, the missing gasoline, Bill Hardsock's request for a leave of absence. . . . All these disjointed facts suddenly clicked together like the parts of a Chinese puzzle.

That man wanted in Edmonton had been Baker! He was coming back in a plane to get those bandits! Hardsock was stealing gas and oil for the machine to maneuver on! He needed these three days of absence in order to take the fuel out to the rendezvous!

Wanting time to think, time to make the right move, Haskell said jerkily: "Just a—minute, corporal. I'll have to . . . I want to consider your request." And he turned away to the window.

So Baker had not given up! He was out of service, but he was coming back to finish with those bandits. Haskell's knowledge of Baker's grim persistent nature and the man's uncanny wisdom in a wilderness man-hunt, whispered to him: "And he'll corner them, too! He'll run those men down! He's going to have a showdown fight with them."

For a moment he was staggered by the man's superb daring. For a moment, forgetting personal scores between himself and Baker, he felt an admiration for this magnificent attempt.

Then, as he saw deeper into the consequences of this feat, his admiration darkened and flickered out. How would it look for the ex-sergeant to capture or kill those men, or at least corner them and go down fighting? What would the higher officials have to say about that?

All his hatred and jealousy of Baker flared up. Not only was this man going to marry the girl he loved; this relentless sergeant, rising out of a crushing defeat, was going to show him up and make his very name a joke throughout the Force.

"You are instructed—" he still heard those crackling words flashing up across the wilderness from Edmonton—"to capture that plane and to arrest those criminals on sight." Baker was a criminal, a wanted man, subject to arrest, certain of a penitentiary sentence! Somewhere to the south he was flying up across the latitudes. He had a rendezvous somewhere with Hardsock.

Hardsock could be trailed to that meeting place! The plane could be captured, Baker arrested, sent up for a term. . . .

Presently Haskell turned around, smiling pleasantly. "I was disgruntled about something when you first came in, corporal. You really have patrolled hard for several months. I'm sorry I snapped at you. You can have your three days off whenever you like. You want to start tomorrow? And when Bill nodded eagerly: "Very well, I'll throw in the rest of this evening, too. By the way, when you go past barracks ask Whipple to step down here."

Professor Would Take Laurels From Ericsson

Another patriotic myth has been forced to lower its colors in the face of careful historical research, writes William E. Rae in a Boston paper. The popular conceit that the United States led the rest of the world in the introduction of ironclad warships and that the dramatic combat between the Monitor and the Merrimack began this revolution in naval architecture which transformed navies the world over, receives no countenance from Prof. James Phinney Baxter, assistant professor of history at Harvard and master of the seventh house to be built under Harvard's new house plan. "The dramatic qualities of this first fight between ironclads have led Americans ever since to exaggerate the effects of the battles of Hampton Roads," Professor Baxter says. "An examination of manuscript material in Paris, London and Washington shows clearly that France, not the United States, played the leading role in the introduction of ironclads."—Detroit News.

United States' "Language" English is the official language of the United States. It has been suggested by some philologists that the speech of the Americans be termed the American language, but no definite action has ever been taken in this respect. Words and phrases that are peculiar to the United States are termed Americanisms.

JESUS THE GOOD SHEPHERD

LESSON TEXT—John 10:1-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Our Good Shepherd.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Our Good Shepherd.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Following the Good Shepherd.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus the Good Shepherd.

The occasion for the parable of the Good Shepherd was the excommunication by the Pharisees of the blind man who had been healed by Christ.

1. The Good Shepherd (vv. 1-18).

1. Jesus is the true shepherd (vv. 1-6). He came by the divinely appointed way. John the Baptist and others of the prophets had performed the function of the porter and opened the door to the sheepfold (vv. 2, 3). The power exercised by the Pharisees in casting out this man was not obtained by lawful means. It was stolen by them and exercised in the bold spirit of robbers. The reason the man suffered excommunication was that he recognized Jesus as the true shepherd and turned from the Pharisees, not only as strangers, but as thieves and robbers. Despite the deceit, audacity, theft, and robbery of these Pharisees, those who were Christ's sheep were declared to be forming a new flock and following him as the true shepherd (v. 4).

2. Jesus is the door of the sheep (vv. 7-10). The way to fellowship with God is through Christ. He is not only a door, but the only door (Acts 4:12). There is absolutely no way into the fold of the redeemed but by and through him. All who attempt to gain access to God except through Jesus Christ are thieves and robbers (v. 8). Those who become members of the flock of God through Jesus Christ enjoy marvelous privileges and gifts (v. 9, 10).

a. Salvation—"shall be saved" (v. 9). They not only enjoyed present salvation, but are eternally saved (vv. 27, 28).

b. Liberty—"shall go in and out" (v. 9). Only those who accept salvation in Christ know what freedom is.

c. Contentment—"shall go in and out and find pasture" (v. 9). The one who really enters the fold by Christ, the door, receives that which is all-satisfying to the soul.

3. Jesus is the good shepherd (vv. 11-18).

a. He giveth his life for the sheep (vv. 11-13). The hireling abandons his sheep in time of danger. The hireling, represented by the Pharisee, takes up his work and continues it for his own sake, for the profit that is in it. Jesus was so devoted to his sheep that he willingly laid down his life for them.

b. He has perfect knowledge of his sheep and they know him (vv. 14, 15). Knowing his sheep so well, he looks after their welfare. He enjoys such personal intimacy with his sheep that he knows them by name, goes before them to lead the way and defend them from every danger.

c. His sympathy is world-wide (v. 16). He declared, "Other sheep have I which are not of this fold." This suggests that the Gentiles have a place in his fold.

d. He enjoys the love of the heavenly Father (vv. 17, 18).

II. The Sheep (vv. 19-30).

1. Unbelievers are not Christ's sheep (vv. 19-20). Christ's assertion that he was the good shepherd caused a division among the people. Some accused him of being mad, others that he had a devil. To their request that he would tell them plainly if he were the Christ, he responded by referring them to the testimony of his works, declaring that the secret of their inability to recognize him was their unbelief.

2. His sheep recognize his voice (v. 27). There are many voices in the world; the voice of the hireling, the voice of the thief, and the voice of the stranger; but none of these will the sheep hear. The voice of the true shepherd is recognized by his sheep even amidst the babble of voices in the world today.

3. He knows his sheep (v. 27). Regardless of how helpless and ignorant the sheep may be, he knows every one and he looks after them.

4. His sheep follow him (v. 27). This is the proof that they are his. The true sheep will flee from strangers (v. 5). This should be a solemn warning to all such as are following strangers.

5. His sheep are eternally secure (vv. 28, 29). The sheep are entirely dependent upon the shepherd. It is the shepherd's business to look after and care for the sheep.

WORDS OF WISDOM

The short way to spell holiness, is l-o-v-e.

The glory of labor is a commendable harvest.

A companion of fools shall be destroyed (Prov. 13:20).

Most of the shadows of this life are caused by standing in our own sunshine.

Mother of 7—Still Young

THE woman who gives her organs the right stimulant need not worry about growing old. Her system doesn't stagnate; her face doesn't age. She has the health and "pep" that come from a lively liver and strong, active bowels.

When you're sluggish and the system needs help, don't take a lot of "patent medicines." There's a famous doctor's prescription for just such cases, and every druggist keeps this standard preparation. It is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure peppin. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's syrup peppin. Take a little every day or so, until every organ in your body feels the big improvement.

The next time you have a bilious headache, or feel all bound-up, take this delicious syrup instead of the usual cathartic. You'll be rid of all that poisonous waste, and you haven't weakened the bowels. You'll have a better appetite, and feel better in every way. The constant use of cathartics is often the cause of a sallow complexion and lines in the face. And so unnecessary!

Would you like to break yourself of the cathartic habit? At the same time building health and vigor that protects you from frequent sick spells, headaches, and colds? Get a big bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup peppin today. Use often enough to avoid those attacks of constipation. When you feel weak and run-down or a coated tongue or bad breath warns you the bowels need to be stimulated. Give it to children instead of strong laxatives that sap their strength. It isn't expensive.

Millions Thrown Away by Wasteful Methods

How much water is wasted by a dripping tap? An answer was provided when New York decided to levy a fine of two dollars for every tap found leaking. In two years 40,000,000 gallons of water were saved. It seems absurd to worry about the amount of steam wasted when a locomotive blows a whistle. But Doctor Foley of Indiana university has calculated that 2,434,026 tons of coal are consumed annually in generating steam to blow United States loco-otive whistles, and that if the whistles were moved slightly forward and adapted to a single high-pitched note, more than 1,000,000 pounds a year could be saved. But this loss is small compared with that involved in throwing into the dustbin cinders that would still give a lot of heat. It is estimated that a third of the cinders thrown away retain from 50 to 70 per cent of their heating value.

Old friends are dearest, but how joyous to make just one new one after middle age.

Sproul To Run For Congress on Wet Plank

Opening his campaign for the Congressional seat he held for five consecutive terms, former Representative Elliott W. Sproul has announced that he will run on a platform including the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

Mr. Sproul states that if elected to Congress in 1932 he shall vote to submit a Constitutional amendment with a proviso that it be submitted to the states for ratification.

NOTICE

To the Editor:

We heard that there was an item in your paper some time ago stating that a still exploded and burned on John Jungles farm. Please be notified that this farm no longer belongs to John Jungles and hasn't for several years. Its better known as the old Weiler Homestead. I wish you would please print this notice in your paper as this is causing us many inconveniences.

Yours truly,
 Mr. John B. Jungles,
 4501 N. Long Ave., Chicago, Ill.
 (Editorial Note: The item in question did not say that a still exploded on the farm referred to, but did say
 "After the building was burned to the ground a 7 foot still loomed up in the wreckage.")

What Cook County Taxpayers Want To Know

Many of the taxpayers of the Southwest part of Cook County are asking the following questions and would like to have the county commissioners of the country districts answer them:

Why does the Forest Preserve Board feel that the Sullivan farm is worth $100,000 for forest preserve purposes? Why should any of the land be worth more than $500 per acre?

Why should property without trees be considered suitable for forest preserves?

Why was a force of engineers at work trying to locate the bottom of Maple Lake?

Why was a saw mill put in the forest preserve at Palos Park and at whose expense and what is it being used for?

Why does Charles Sauers, supt., of the Forest Preserve department draw a salary of $12,000 with a $3000 expense account?

TINLEY PARK

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goebel entertained Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Shear of Thawville Sunday.

The 3rd annual valentine dance held at the Saenger hall Saturday night was fairly well attended.

The bakery sale held at the Mes-enbrink market, Wednesday afternoon was well attended.

Mr. Mabec, the new rural mail carrier, moved his family into the Mrs.
 Christian Andres residence Wednesday afternoon.

The Tinley Park baseball team is busily engaged preparing for the bunco and card party to be held at the Legion hall, Wednesday, March 9th.

Henry Neiman who has been ill,
 is much improved.

Tinley Wins Seventh in Row

The Tinley Park Basketball team commemorated Lincoln's birth day by winning three basket ball games from teams from Chicago Heights.

The lightweights who are going along at a rapid clip at this time an-nexed their seventh successive victory in as many starts. The team at this time seems to be working exceptionally well for the size of the community it represents, when consideration is taken that the teams in the greater majority are high calibre teams, having in the most part ex-high school stars, and players of years of experience.

All three teams on a whole have played away over expectations at the start of the season, as the playing in a new gym of the enormous size in which they now play as against the proportions of the hall which the Messrs. Lorenz and Rein were so kind to let them use when no other place was available, for which they were very appreciative. This makes them change their style of play.

Another thing to consider is the fact that all three teams are made up of practically raw material, which are for the most part banded together for the first time.

It is expected that next year will put on the floor teams that will take the lead in the surrounding communities, as they will have lost their stage fright, and will have had the experience of having played together this entire season.

The lightweight team has entered the annual lightweight Tournament at Midlothian, in which are entered teams from Evergreen Park, Blue Island, Midlothian and Oak Forest.
 The Tournament started last Thursday at which time Tinley beat the strong Evergreen Park team by the score of 28 to 26. Tinley last year won the championship and this year is defending its laurels, and in an interview with Judge Goessel, coach of both light and heavyweight teams he advises that it is not only possible, but hopes and expects the team to repeat their accomplishments of last year. The team must win the most of ten games to accomplish this feat, so come and boost the teams spirits by helping them with at least your presence at the forthcoming Tournament games at Midlothian.

PETERS

Dearest mother how we miss you,
 In our paths of life each day,
 And we cannot comprehend it
 That you really went away.

But your old arm chair is vacant
 And your face we do not see,
 Different is the entire household,
 Changed from what it used to be.

And each day how we will miss you,
 But sweet memories of your love,
 Will forever give us comfort,
 Till we meet again above.

TELEPHONE MAN GETS SECOND HEROISM MEDAL

Given National Safety Council Award for Another Rescue

For the second time within two years, Fred J. Lockwood, an installation foreman of the New York Telephone Company, living at Hollis, L. I., has been awarded the President's Medal of the National Safety Council, this time for saving a man from drowning.

The incident for which Lockwood received his latest recognition occurred at Rockaway Beach. He was working in front of a bungalow when he heard the cry that a man was drowning. One of the summer colonists had been drawn down by the undertow about fifty feet from shore. Lockwood swam out to where the man had gone down, dove, found him, and brought him ashore. Although the man's breathing had been suspended for about eight minutes, the knowledge of first aid which Lockwood had learned in the telephone company's first aid course enabled him to resuscitate him by artificial respiration.

The first award which Lockwood received was for saving the life of a young woman who had been overcome by gas.

TALL POLES RAISED FOR RADIO TELEPHONE WORK

The normal height of a telephone pole is thirty or thirty-five feet, but in New Jersey telephone plant men were called upon recently to erect two poles, 100 feet in height.

These poles have been placed on the property of the Bell Telephone Laboratories at Mendham. They are of that height not in order to discourage endurance pole sitters, but to support an aerial for radio telephone research purposes.

These skyscraping poles are thirty-five feet higher than are those used at the transmitting station at Oceangate for ship-to-shore telephony purposes. They are as sturdy and straight as are the masts of a yacht cup defender, and were secured from a Brooklyn shipyard, whence they were towed to Deal Beach, en route to Mendham.

WISCONSIN OPERATOR STICKS TO POST AMID FLAMES

Refusing to leave her post in the burning telephone exchange at Eagle, Wis., until she had succeeded in placing calls for assistance to the towns of Mukwonago and Palmyra, Mrs. Louella Anderson, relief telephone operator, recently became the heroine of the fire which burned several buildings in the business section. Finally she was carried from the building to safety, but not until the calls for assistance had been placed.

 this time rendering a series of three songs, "A Long Road", "Listen!
 Listen!" and "Grandfather's Clock" and were as equally successful as in their opening numbers.

A very appropriately selected and excellently arranged and acted play let "All About Washington" was enacted by the following pupils of the grammar grades: John Heim, as Washington; Marie Utke as "The Spirit of America" and Cyril Kay, Harold Helenhouse, Lester Kinney, Floyd Cooper, George Voght, Boro-th Miller, LaVerne Murphy and Violet Jacobson as students of American History. All entered into the spirit of the playlet enthusiastically and particular credit is given to John Heim and Cyril Kay for their excellent interpretation of their parts.

Two very interesting historic tableaux were presented by the Junior Choir, "The Minuet" and Betsy Ross".

Lincoln's memory was honored by two numbers, one the immortal Gettysburg address was given by Lula Pomeroy, winner of the sectional championship in last year's declamatory contest, the other the poem,
 "The Death of Lincoln", was given by Charlyn Knox. Both numbers were well rendered.

Charlyn Knox deserves special commendation as the numbers she gave had been assigned to someone else who at the eleventh hour was
